

Building a Practice with Passion

Your vision truly affects how you experience the world. Many of us take it for granted, but Dr. Maria Scott does not. In medical school, she found her passion for changing people's lives by restoring their sight. It was during her ophthalmology rotation that she encountered a patient whose life was transformed by cataract surgery. Witnessing the profound effect on this person's life, she was hooked. Since that time Dr. Scott has completely dedicated herself to offering the finest vision care. She has built a team of experts to address your specific needs with the utmost care, attention to detail and sincere interest in your well being.

Dr. Scott's vast experience, skill and personal demeanor have earned her great respect in the community. She is one of the region's most sought-after cataract and refractive surgeons. In fact, she is the choice of many medical professionals who trust her for their own personal eye care and that of their families. Since the inception of "Top Doc" in 2003, Dr. Scott has repeatedly been selected by her peers as the "Top Doc" for ophthalmology.

Always ahead of the curve, Dr. Scott is often the first to offer new techniques and treatments to her patients. Recognized as a leader in her industry, she trains and supervises other ophthalmologists in laser vision correction and hosts symposiums throughout the year in order to keep her colleagues abreast of the latest ophthalmic treatments. She is an attending surgeon at Anne Arundel Medical Center and Washington Hospital Center, and shares her experience with other practices around the country.

Dr. Scott is a member of the prestigious Society for Excellence in Eyecare, an organization of eye care specialists who are personally selected and recognized for their leadership and innovation. She is also a member of the American Society of Cataract & Refractive Surgeons, American Academy of Ophthalmology, Ophthalmic Women Leaders, and the American College of Eye Surgeons.

Dr. Scott's passion to improve her patients' quality of life is evident throughout every aspect of her practice. All of the specialists share the same level of integrity and commitment to produce the best possible outcome. The entire team at Chesapeake Eye Care and Laser Center works tirelessly to ensure that every patient has an unforgettable, positive experience every time.
